2007 ~ Opportunity Knocks

The year 2007 promises to be an unusual one, full of challenges as well as exciting opportunities. We'll poke our heads out of the "foxhole" that 2006 has been and will emerge thinking, "Hmm...a new game plan is a great idea!"

Please join Elizabeth Wilson for our annual year-ahead forecast. She'll explore the principal planetary dynamics of the coming year and uncover some of the astrological patterns that will affect us both globally and personally, giving us an empowering perspective that is vital to enable us to recognize the doorways to opportunity that are coming our way in 2007.

In August, the International Astronomical Union (IAU) voted that Pluto, planet of Power and Transformation, isn't a planet. What does this change of status mean—to us and to Pluto's conjunction with the Galactic Center?

What does the opposition of Neptune (planet of Spiritual Direction) and Saturn (planet of Societal Structure) mean?

What will happen when Mercury (planet of Communication) goes retrograde? And what should we do?

Winston Churchill said, "The pessimist sees difficulty in every opportunity. The optimist sees the opportunity in every difficulty." More than ever, as our planet approaches a population of 6.5 billion, we have the opportunity to use these powerful universal rhythms to navigate and steer our collective and personal destinies.

When she was 11, Beth picked up an astrology book and a deck of tarot cards and said "Oh Wow!—I remember these." Thus began her life-long passion for the healing arts. She is a holistic astrologer with over 25 years in practice. Using a blend of healing arts including astrology, feng shui, reiki, and more, she helps her clients to explore their unique journeys and energetic connections through personalized in-depth readings covering relationship, self-exploration, vocation, relocation, and clear and simple strategies.

As a founding member of the Network of Triangle Astrologers, a chapter of the National Council for Geocosmic Research (NCGR), and as its current President, she practices and supports the professionalism of astrology by co-sponsoring an internationally recognized Astrology Lecture Series in Raleigh, North Carolina, and through participation at expos and other local venues. She was the astrology columnist for InnerChange magazine at the turn of the millennium. As an interfaith minister, she is an on-call pastor for UNC Hospitals Pastoral Care Oncology, with the labyrinth and crystal bowls, supporting others in their efforts towards wholeness through the balance and wisdom of person, place, and timing.

The year 2007 promises to be a "fireball," and we will want to be ready to run with it. Come, bring your sense of adventure, and learn how!
