Trance Healing ~
Releasing Souls Caught Between the Worlds

Are you sometimes fearful or angry but not sure how you got there? Do you have persistent, repetitive thoughts and ideas that won't leave your head? Are you quick to feel emotions or to have negative physical reactions without knowing why? If so, it may be that a confused soul or earthbound entity is hovering around you.

Many of the thoughts, feelings, and habits we have had for years may be not our own but those of these souls. Through trance healing, our unresolved issues with these souls are clarified, freeing the souls to go with their lights, guardian angels, or spirit guides. Once their influences have been released, we can do our own healing work more easily, leading to forgiveness for all involved; the release of old shame, guilt, and remorse; and the loss of any desire for retribution.

As our February speaker, Robin Lynne, explains, "Being influenced by souls caught between the worlds is very real—and more common, but less terrifying, than the movies would have us believe." In her interactive talk, she will describe the process of trance healing and how we can integrate it into our everyday lives for personal and collective well-being.

Trance healing helps souls we know from this or past lifetimes, who haven't crossed all the way over to the other side after physical death, to complete the transition. They are not evil so much as confused, and those of us who are still in physical bodies can experience their confusion as flashes of pain, momentary memory loss, sudden confusion, intensified fear, irrational thoughts, or negative influences. Through trance healing, we can learn to discern when we are under the influence of earthbound entities—to recognize the mental, emotional, and physical symptoms that alert us to their presence—and how to release them to their lights without getting further entangled in their confusion.

When she was only 13 years old, Robin Lynne Rainbow Feather began her spiritual training with Francisco Coll, founder of the Inner Peace Movement and the Astro-Soul Program. By the time she was 17, she was lecturing and touring with these programs throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, and parts of Canada; appearing on radio and TV; and being covered in newspaper articles. She became the youngest certified professional counselor on tour with the Americana Leadership College, counseling individuals in all facets of their spiritual growth.

She is a shamanic healer and spiritual teacher, synthesizing such Native American practices as shamanic drumming, soul-retrieval ceremony, and work with animal totems, and with other modalities such as self-empowerment ritual, feminine spirituality, and true discernment training, as well as trance healing. She has a B.S. in Health and Human Services, is a certified hypnotherapist, and is an ordained minister with Peace Community Church. For 10 years she has studied with Will Rockingbear, a Cherokee healer and teacher of the Beauty Way.

She teaches and has a healing practice through the Flower Eagle Medicine Lodge in her home in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Learn more about Robin Lynne and her work at www.FlowerEagle.com.
