Living from the “I Am”

Yeshua—Jesus—taught in the Aramaic language of his time. In today’s Christian bibles, the rich spiritual wisdom has been veiled beneath almost two millennia of misunderstandings, skewed translations, intentional manipulation, and a general lack of spiritual perception, and many of his teachings have been lost or deeply misunderstood.

Dale Allen Hoffman brings the words of Yeshua to life in the Aramaic in which they were first spoken, offering a living, breathing vision of his most misunderstood teachings. Through clear interpretations in English, and with prayer, breath work, and intonations, Dale shares stunning insights from original Aramaic scriptures and other ancient manuscripts about the seemingly miraculous capacity of the human mind and the awakening consciousness of humanity.

When Yeshua made statements such as “I Am the Way, the Truth and the Life” or “I Am the Light of the world,” was he speaking about himself? In this talk, Dale shares startling insights and profound experiential practices to help stimulate our conscious recognition of what St. Francis of Assisi was referring to when he said, “What you are looking for is what is looking.”

Dale grew up in southern New Jersey with both Episcopalian and Methodist traditions, including intensive bible studies with his grandmother. He always felt something was missing from that King James Bible, and so was on a search for spiritual truth before he was old enough to realize it. When he was 9 he had a spiritual experience that he could not comprehend until he was an adult, when it would profoundly affect his consciousness. Introduced in his early 20s to the native Aramaic teachings of Yeshua, he spent the next 14 years studying the works of many preeminent Aramaic language scholars, spiritual teachers, and religious figures. He is now, himself, considered by many to be one of the world’s leading authorities on the direct, practical application of the ancient Aramaic teachings of Yeshua.

Dale has published several compact disc audio programs including Realization of the Christ Within; Home In Emptiness: Yeshua’s Original Aramaic Be-Attitudes; and A Being Divided Against Itself: The Most Radical Spiritual Teaching Ever.
