Devic and Angelic Light

A soul's journey starts out as an unconscious spark of light in the Ocean of Life, as an essence of divine light held in unconscious bliss. Eventually the soul recognizes that all separation from divinity is an illusion. This is the culmination of experiences at many planes of existence, through the chaos of devic light—where the soul may pass through millions of lifetimes in its journey to becoming conscious—to the order of the angelic realms found in the higher planes of consciousness.

The soul leaves the Ocean of Life in its primary separation from divinity and encounters different streams of light as it drops through the planes of consciousness down ultimately into physical matter. One of these streams is the angelic realms. A soul awakened into consciousness at this point enters the angelic pattern of evolution, where it becomes a primary observer of all life and creation, ultimately experiencing one final life in physical matter before ascending back into the essence of God the divine.

Souls that have not awakened at this point continue a journey down through the planes of consciousness until they encounter a different pattern of light, known as devic light. In the devic pattern of light, the soul is always seeking more light through constant experience—physical, emotional, or otherwise—in the mineral, plant, and animal kingdoms. After many such experiences, the soul will enter the human realms to continue its journey back up the planes of consciousness, to angelic light.

Devic and angelic realms are both being seeded now with a brand new quality of light and love and are undergoing profound changes. This will form the basis for the huge energetic changes that will unfold over the coming years. The devic pulse of awareness is pushing more into the planet and can be seen in photographs of rocks and plants. Similarly, a new type of angelic soul is beginning to enter the planet, hosting an entirely new type of light.

Nick Scott-Ram will describe the soul's journey through these different streams of light, and then will outline some of the major changes that are manifesting on the inner and outer planes. His talk includes photographs that can open up one's awareness to devic life.

From a young age, Nick was interested in meditation and in our inner world of experience. For 10 years, he has worked with David Cousins, an international teacher and healer, and explored Divine energy patterns in our world. Since 1997, he has run his own workshops on subjects such as healing energies, the Sixth Root Race, and the Crystal Skulls, both in the UK and in the USA.

Nick graduated from Cambridge University in England, in Zoology, and received his PhD in the Philosophy of Science. He is the author of numerous books, including Keys to our Heart: A Prelude to the Sixth Root Race; Keys to the Crystal Skulls: Divine Beacons of Light; and his latest, The Light of Understanding.
